

Hello Dali Class,

It's been another lovely week of sunshine. I hope you are enjoying being out when you can. I have spent more time out in the garden which has been lovely. I've also been reading lots. I have 2 books 'on the go' at the moment - a novel about what it was like for people after VE day as they tried to get back to a more normal life through the eyes of different characters and a book that someone wrote after travelling on a particular bus route in London for many years. They decided to get off at each stop and research the places they found themselves in. So it is a mixture of geography and history at the same time. They are both very interesting and I'm learning a lot.

I've also been reading the First News newspapers that are in the learning folders for you. I was astounded by this article.

15. CUCKOO JOURNEY

A cuckoo called Carlton II has been tracked across an epic 3,000-mile journey from Africa to the UK. It took Carlton II just one week to fly the distance, something Dr Chris Hewson described as "an awesome feat and something even swifts don't manage".

Wow! What a journey! It puts my daily walks into perspective Dali class.

This article raised so many questions. Was Africa its usual destination? Is that a record for a cuckoo? Is it a particular breed of cuckoo?

This week, I have found some more new recipes I am trying out and I've also been baking things that people would have made in the time of VE day. I've got bunting up in the garden to mark this time.

Please try to keep up to date as best you can with the weekly folders which have curriculum tasks, in between your other activities you are trying. Do what you can and please don't worry if you don't manage to complete all of the tasks. My Maths, Numbots and Spag are online too.

I am missing you all. Keep well. Love from Miss Askew
